In this highly interconnected cyber world, the ability to adequately protect against cyber attacks, such as ransomware, phishing and distributed denial-of-service (DDoS) attacks, is of paramount importance. It only serves to fuel the demand for cyber security professionals. To address the challenges, the training of local cyber security talents is indispensable.

Hong Kong Productivity Council ("HKPC") and the Hong Kong Computer Emergency Response Team Coordination Centre ("HKCERT") are dedicated to nurturing cyber security talent, euipping the next gerenation who aspire to join the industry to safeguard the digital future. HKPC and HKCERT organised the "Capture the Flag (CTF) Challenge 2023" (the "Programme") in November with seven information security organisations. The Programme aims to raise security awareness of the education sector and the public. Through a challenging competition, the CTF tries to stimulate proactive learning of cyber security skills and encourage problem solving and creative thinking among students and information security practitioners.

The award presentation ceremony will be held on 19 December 2023. Apart from presenting the awards to the winners, cyber security experts will also be on hand to share their views on cyber security and how to leverage vulnerability management solutions to improve security and security risk management. Besides, there will be two panel discussions on attack and defense techniques.
